

Concert Organist, Tom Trenney, will present a program of organ accompaniment to great silent films of the 1920s. Films will feature the likes of Laurel and Hardy and Buster Keaton which always provide hilarious fun for audiences of all ages. In addition, Trenney will play popular organ music on the mighty pipe organ of First United Methodist Church.

In the 1920s, most large movie theaters, or movie palaces as they were called, featured original musical accompaniment on theater pipe organs played by organists who were masters of improvising to match the mood and action of the movies. That style of playing is certainly not lost on Tom Trenney. The American Organist said "Trenney's improvisations exhibit a fertile imagination . . ."
